To Whom it May Concern;

I have know the bearer of this character reference, Terrence Stone for over two years, and have found him to be a person of good character.

In my dealings with Terry I have found him to be a person who is serious about life and about his responsibilities towards others.

Terry has benefitted from the advantages of a good home where Christian values including those to be applied in his duties to, and responsibility for, society have been taken seriously. Terry has always shown himself appreciative of these by the way in which he has lived. He has shown himself ready to face the reality of independence with maturity and responsibility.

I recommend Terry as a person of very high ideals who is ready to face the challenge of applying those in everyday life with conviction; and whose future life will be a success because of this outlook and attitude.
